1. INTRODUCTION

Bonds and commercial paper are instruments issued for the purpose of raising funds directly from investors without intermediation by banks or other financial institutions.

Commercial papers are issued to raise funds for working capital requirements whereas bonds are meant to meet long term financing requirements. The time horizon of the financial instruments determines whether it is a bond or commercial paper. The issuance of these financial instruments is critical to the deepening of the capital markets.

The Capital Markets and Securities Authority (CMSA) issues these Guidelines to provide guidance to market players in the issuance of bonds and commercial papers in the capital markets. The Guidelines also serve to clarify the regulatory roles of the CMSA and other Government authorities and agencies on the issuance of these debt financial instruments. The issuance of diverse financial instruments provides a number of financing options to corporate institutions and Local Government Authorities (LGAs) aiming at enhancing funding, which in turn helps to reduce the cost of borrowing and promote diversification of sources of long term funds in the economy as well as enhancing competitiveness of the financial sector.

1.1. Legal and Regulatory Oversight

The CMSA is established under the Capital Markets and Securities Act (Cap. 79), with a responsibility inter alia to create the necessary environment for the orderly growth and development of the capital markets and to formulate principles for the guidance of the industry.

The issuance of debt financial instruments by the corporate sector and LGAs is primarily a capital markets activity and therefore falls under the regulatory jurisdiction of the CMSA. These Guidelines therefore follow, and are in addition to any provision in the Capital Markets and Securities Act (Cap. 79) that permits issuances of debt instruments. These Guidelines are designed to ensure that such issues are properly made, that full information is given to potential investors so that they may be informed about the terms of the issue and their rights, and that any rules of the DSE and the settlement system are observed.

Commercial banks and other financial institutions licensed under the Banking and Financial Institutions Act (CAP 342) must obtain BOT clearance before seeking to issue any financial instrument.

Insurance companies must seek clearance from the Tanzania Insurance Regulatory Authority (TIRA).

LGAs must obtain approval from the Minister responsible for local government as required by the Local Government Finances Act of 1982. This Act grants the Minister responsible for local government, in consultation with the Minister responsible for finance powers to approve loans to a Local Government Authority (LGA) within the United Republic for such amounts, from such sources, in such manner, for such purposes and upon such conditions as the authority concerned may deem fit. However, an LGA seeking to invest in large infrastructure projects through a Special Purpose Vehicle (SPV) in which the Local Government Authority holds minority shares, may issue an SPV bond without clearance from the Minister responsible for Local Government Authority; provided that the liabilities arising from the investment are localized to the SPV and that no asset of the LGA would be transferred to the SPV.

1.2. Rationale for the Guidelines

These Guidelines are issued by the CMSA in order to streamline the regulatory environment for the issuance of bonds and commercial papers and to ensure transparency and disclosure in the issue procedures, contents of prospectus, the conduct of advisers and arrangers of the issue, solicitation to purchasers, and in subsequent accounting and reporting to investors by the issuer.

The Guidelines recognize the CMSA as the primary regulator and supervisor of bond issue made in Tanzania with responsibility for compliance with the East Africa Community (EAC) requirements for regional bond issuance, if it is intended that the bond be approved for subscription in other EAC member states, and for ensuring that the provisions for continuous disclosure are complied with. The Guidelines are therefore intended to be consistent with the East African Securities Regulators Requirements for Regional Bond Issuance, adopted at the 33rd Consultative Meeting of the East African Member States Securities Regulatory Authorities.

These Guidelines serve to ensure that only issuers that qualify as issuers of debt instruments and meet the conditions defined herein may issue such instruments to the public. While the CMSA cannot guarantee that such instruments will not default, it aims at ensuring that only the best quality instruments are issued so as to protect investors.

The guidelines take into account the financial soundness of the issuers of these securities and to ensure compliance with prescribed disclosure requirements. The guidelines have been developed in order to streamline the regulatory framework for the issuance of debt instruments and to address the needs of issuers and investors to address public needs.

1.3. General Scope of the Guidelines

These Guidelines covers all types of bonds and commercial papers.

A bond is a form of security generally issued for longer term financing needs. It carries a fixed or variable rate of interest and is redeemable by the issuer after a number of years.

A corporate bond is a bond issued by a body corporate.

A municipal bond is a bond issued by a Local Government Authority (LGA) or on behalf of an LGA, that is to say, a local government entity in a region, district, or urban area. These securities are issued directly to the public by way of a prospectus approved by the CMSA.

Other forms of loans such as loans from the Government of Tanzania, international organizations, development banks, the Local Government Loans Board or from banks and for which public subscription is not being invited are not subject to these Guidelines.

LGAs can issue bonds either in their own names or as participants in a Special Purpose Vehicle (SPV). An SPV bond is a special kind of corporate bond that is issued by a subsidiary corporate entity known as special purpose vehicle. A special purpose vehicle is a subsidiary company with an asset and/or liability structure and legal status that makes its obligations secure, even if the parent entity goes bankrupt. The SPV's debts may, or may not, be covered with recourse to the "real" borrower. The equity in the SPV can be owned in whole or part by the LGA or parent company, and/or by other investors (institutions such as pension funds) and by the entity that will undertake the project, usually a construction company, which is often granted a concession by the LGA or parent company to operate the facility for a period sufficient to repay the debt incurred to cover the costs of construction and generate profit.

The types of bond are:

General obligation bonds

General obligation bonds are secured on the overall assets of the issuer and repaid from its overall revenues (grants, taxes, fees and other charges it makes). The issuer is absolutely responsible for, and cannot avoid, ensuring that the obligations created by the bond's prospectus are complied with. In the event that it is unable to do this and fails to meet interest payments when they fall due or repayment, according to the contractual schedule, it may be judged to be 'in default'. In this case, the bondholders may be able to take possession of some of the issuer's assets in order to obtain payment of any money due to them.

Revenue bonds

A revenue bond is a special type of a bond distinguished by its guarantee of repayment solely from revenues generated by a specified revenue-generating activity associated with the purpose of the bonds (like water and sewerage, roads, ports, airports, power plants, markets or other public buildings) rather than from the general revenues of the issuer.

Other categories of bond

Any other type of bond may be specially approved by the CMSA, provided that the provisions of these Guidelines relating to the purpose, content of the prospectus, disclosure and transparency are regarded as of the same standards required for the other types of bond described above.

Commercial papers are debt financial instruments issued to raise funds for working capital requirements.

These Guidelines are divided into three broad parts:

PART 2: Guidelines for the issuance of municipal bonds.

PART 3: Guidelines for the issuance of commercial paper.

ANNEX 1: FINANCIAL RATIOS

The financial ratios have been defined below to ensure that all issuers prepare them on a consistent and comparable basis.

- i. Earnings before interest and taxes (EBIT) interest cover

$$\text{EBIT interest cover} = \frac{\text{EBIT for the period}}{\text{Interest payable for the period} + \text{any preference dividend payable for the period}}$$

This is the extent to which interest is covered by profits before interest (payable) and taxes.

EBIT is after interest earned and income from investments during the period. Interest payable for the period is defined as interest payable on all long-term and short-term debts for the period (i.e. interest paid and accrued).

- ii. Operating cash flow to total debt percentage

$$\text{Operating cash flow to total debt ratio} = \frac{\text{funds generated from Operations in the period}}{\text{Average total debt during the period}} \times 100\%$$

This is the extent to which debt is covered by the cash generated from operations during the period.

- iii. Free Cash flow to total debt percentage

$$\text{Free cash flow to total debt} = \frac{\text{free cash flows for the period}}{\text{Average total debt during the period}} \times 100\%$$

This is the extent to which debt is covered by free cash flow available for the period.

- iv. Total free cash flow to total short term debt obligations

$$= \frac{\text{total uncommitted cash flows for the period}}{\text{total short-term debt obligations at the end of the period}} \times 100\%$$

This is the extent to which all short-term obligations are covered by total uncommitted cash flows measured as a percentage.

Total uncommitted cash flow is defined as free cash flow for the period plus any cash and cash equivalents at the end of the period.

Cash equivalents are defined as highly liquid assets, convertible into known amounts of cash without notice and have insignificant risk of changes in value owing to changes in interest rates. A reasonable cut-off for cash equivalents is represented by a three-month (or less) maturity from date of acquisition.

Short-term debt obligations at the end of the period are defined as:

- Ø Bank loans and overdrafts,
- Ø Current portions of long-term liabilities,
- Ø Other payables, but excluding accounts and notes payable (trade), taxes on income, dividends payable and other payables and accrued expenses which are of a non-financing nature.

v. Net profit margin

Net profit margin = (net profit for the period/total sales for the period) x 100%

This is a measure of profitability.

Total sales turnover for the period represents the total gross sales net of indirect taxes such as VAT.

Net profit is as defined in the glossary but must be stated after charging depreciation on the gross carrying value of the fixed assets.

vi. Post-tax return (before financing costs) on capital employed

Post-tax return = $\frac{\text{Profit after tax but before Financing costs for the Period}}{\text{Average Capital employed for the period}} \times 100\%$

This measures the actual percentage rate of return to the "owners" of the capital (both equity and debt holders). Profit after tax for the period is stated after exceptional items but before extraordinary items and interest payable. Capital Employed is defined as: shareholders' interest + minority interest + non-equity shares at Liquidation value + long term debt.

Shareholders' interest is made-up of paid-up capital and all reserves (i.e. revenue and capital reserves, including revaluation reserves).

Note: Where extraordinary items can have a significant impact, the ratio should also be computed using profit after tax, extraordinary items and exceptional items but before financing costs.

vii. Long-term debt to capital employed ratio

Long-term debt to Capital employed ratio = $\frac{\text{average long - term debt outstanding during the period}}{\text{average equity + average long - term debt for the period}}$

This measures the level of debt in relation to capital employed - the financial leverage, stated as a percentage

viii. Total debt to equity ratio

Total debt to equity ratio = $\frac{\text{average short - term debt outstanding + average long term debt outstanding during the period}}{\text{average equity for the period}}$

This is also termed as the gearing ratio, measures the level of debt compared to equity, stated as a factor x:1. Equity net worth (defined in the glossary).

ix. Funds from operations to debt Percentage

Funds from operations to debt = $\frac{\text{funds generated from operations In the period}}{\text{Average total debt during the period}} \times 100\%$

x. Free cash flow to debt repayment cover

Free cash flow to debt repayment cover = $\frac{\text{free cash flow for the period}}{\text{Interest payable + preference dividend + principal repaid during the period}}$

This is the extent to which total debt is covered by cash flow available for the period.

Free cash flow is defined in the glossary. Debt repayment includes any obligations on total debt that are due within the period.

ANNEX 2: GLOSSARY

The glossary is designed to provide clarity to the terms used in the guidelines and the computation of the financial ratios.

Adviser or Sponsoring Broker

In relation to an issue of securities means a corporate person licensed by the CMSA to be engaged in the provision of financial services which deals in securities whether debt or equity and has been contracted by an issuer as a lead adviser to an issue of securities.

Average over the period

This is defined as the average of the opening and closing balances for that period. Alternatively, where the debt profile changes significantly during the year, it would be more appropriate to compute a weighted average over the period using month-end or quarter-end balances. The basis of computation should be disclosed.

Bond

A bond is a debt instrument with a maturity of one year or more, and evidence of a loan extended by a creditor to a corporation or other borrower such as a government or local authority. The borrower is obligated to pay the bondholder a specific interest at specific intervals, and to repay the principal amount of the loan at maturity. Bonds signify indebtedness of the issuer to the bondholder but do not have corporate ownership privileges as shareholders. The terms of the contract are normally contained in the bond indenture or trust indenture.

Bond Insurer

An insurance company which insures an issuer of securities against risk of default in payment of interest and payment of principal due under a guaranteed bond

Commercial Paper

Commercial paper is a debt instrument with a maturity of less than one year and is evidence of loan extended by a creditor to a corporation.

Free Cash flow

This is defined as operating cash flow for the period less income tax paid and net capital investment.

Guarantor

Means any person who guarantees to bond or commercial paper holders payment of interest and repayment of principal due under a guaranteed bond or paper respectively

Guaranteed Bond

Means a bond which is guaranteed as to payment of interest and repayment of principal by a third party who may or may not be related to the issuer but is usually larger, better known or more credit worthy than the issuer, or guaranteed by means of a contract of insurance

Guaranteed paper

Means a commercial paper which is guaranteed as to payment of interest and repayment of principal by a third party who may or may not be related to the issuer but is usually larger, better known or more credit worthy than the issuer or guaranteed by means of a contract of insurance

Issue

Any security of a legal entity, offered for distribution.

Issuer

A legal entity whose securities are offered for sale or distribution

Lot

A given number of units of a security

Net worth (equity)

This represents the worth of the company after all obligations are met. Thus it may be defined as paid-up share capital plus all reserves (i.e., revenue and capital reserves, including revaluation reserves).

Net profit

This is defined as the net profit for the period after the tax and extraordinary and exceptional items.

Offer Document

This is a document prepared by the issuer to provide information about the issue and in compliance with disclosure requirements whether in the form of a prospectus or an information memorandum.

Offer period

This is the period between the time an issue is offered to the public and the time the offer closes.

Operating cash flow (funds generated from operations)

According to International Accounting Standard 7, Operating cash flow is defined as net profit (see below) for the period as adjusted for the effects of:

-Changes in working capital (stocks, trade debtors and creditors) during the period;

-Non-cash items such as depreciation, foreign exchange (gain)/loss, (gain/loss or disposal of fixed assets, provisions, deferred taxes, etc.

-All other items for which the cash effects are investing or financing cash flows or returns on investment or servicing of finance, such as dividend income, interest paid, or interest received.

Paid-up Share Capital

This represents ordinary shares (equity shares), which have been issued and fully paid for, but excludes all non-equity shares except for non-redeemable preference shares.

Period

The term is defined as the period for which the financial statements are made up. This must not exceed 18 months and must not be less than 3 months. For example, the longest period would be 1st January 2019 to 30th June 2020 and the shortest period would be 1st January 2019 to 31st March 2019.

Profit for the purpose of determining eligibility for issuing debt

Profit for-this purpose is the net profit before minority interests,

The latest available balance sheet date

Where the latest annual audited financial statements are made up to a date more than six months prior to launch date e.g., latest audited financial statements are for 12 months to 30th June, 2019 for a bond issue to be launched on 31st March, 2020, then:

Management should disclose the un-audited balance sheet date to a date less than six months prior to the launch date (say 31 December, 2019) and financial results and cash flows for the period from the last audited financial statements to that date (6 months to December, 2019).

- (1) Disclose the financial ratios for that period (6 months to 31st December, 2019) on a 12 - month equivalent basis. The balance sheet, profit & loss and cash flows for the "notional" first six months should be extrapolated. The extrapolation should be on a straight - line basis where there are no significant seasonal trends. Where there are significant seasonal trends identified in the previous period, then the extrapolation should be weighted accordingly.

Total Indebtedness

This is represented by both long-term debt and short-term debt.

Long-term debts are any amounts outstanding on commitments that are repayable after more than one year. Examples include:

- Ø term loan
- Ø bonds issued
- Ø non-equity shares outstanding e.g. redeemable preference shares
- Ø long-term lease obligation
- Ø parent company loan/director loan/shareholder loan

For these items, analyse the amounts as:

- Ø amounts falling due within 2 - 5 years
- Ø amounts falling due after 5 years

Short-term debts area ny amounts owed that have a maturity period of less than a year or which are repayable on demand but exclude normal trade creditors and other creditors. Example includes:

- § overdrafts
- § current portion of longterm debt commercial paper
- § certificate of deposit (COs) issued
- § parent company loans/directorloans/shareholderloans
- § trade credit facilities from related parties which are in excess of normal industry credit terms  these amounts would be classified as long-term debt provided that there is an agreed repayment schedule for interest and principal that is being adhered to, otherwise the amounts would be classified as short-term debt.

for example, if the amount outstanding on a trade credit from a related party is equivalent to 90 days worth of purchase while normal industry terms are 30 days. An amount equivalent to 60 days worth of purchases should be classified as short-term debt.

Disclosure should also be provided of future significant/material cash obligations that are not already reflected on the balance sheets as liability (i.e., off-balance sheet items), such as:

- § Contracted obligations, commitments for the next 12 months;
- § capital commitments that have been contracted for but not provided for on the balance sheet and those authorized but not contracted;
- § Contingent liabilities;
- § Contracted amounts payable under sale and repurchase agreements not recognized in the balance sheet, e.g., sale and leaseback of fixed assets;

The disclosure of these future obligations should also be classified as those falling due within one year and those falling due after one year.
